GIANT ALL-OUT "RED" DRIVE SEEKING TO CUT THE

Strength of UN Carrier
Aircraft Into Action

MOMENTUM WHITTLED

Some American Units Are
At Least Temporarily
IsolatedBy Howard Handelman
(Far Eastern Director, I. N. S.)

TOKYO, Sept. 1.—(INS)—Counter-punching U. S. land and air forces, including all available navy planes, today slowed and partially stopped a giant all-out Red drive seeking to cut the Pusan-Taeju lifeline and overwhelm the Allied Korean beachhead.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur hurled the full strength of United Nations carrier aircraft in the war theater into action to help stem the enemy's "last gasp" offensive which scored gains up to five miles and crossed the Nakdong River at six places.

Before their momentum was whittled down by American counter-blows, tank-tipped spearheads of some 50,000 North Korean troops surged eastward at many points on a 55-mile front as they strove to separate three crack U. S. divisions.

Some American-held areas and towns were overrun and some U. S. units up to regimental size were at least temporarily isolated from their parent forces in the first hours of the Korean war's biggest battle to date.

But the U. S. Army's 25th, Second Infantry and First Cavalry Divisions struck back vigorously and at some points regained lost ground. And hundreds of Allied land-based and carrier planes pummeled five Red divisions involved in the "do or die" offensive.

A spokesman for MacArthur's intelligence service declared late Friday that counter-attacking U. S. 25th Division troops, as of noon, had slowed and may even have halted the southern half of the big Red push.

Field dispatches later said the U. S. Second Division, farther north, appeared to be stabilizing its front where the Reds had overrun most of the low ground lying east of the middle Nakdong-between Hyonpung and Yongsan. Yongsan is 18 miles southeast of the enemy's Hyonpung bridgehead.

Just above Hyonpung, U. S. First Cavalry Division forces were hitting back to reduce large enemy forces at Tuksong after repulsing a strong onslaught at the north end of the Red offensive.

As the great battle mounted steadily in fury, a British staff officer said.

"No Left Turn" Rule Now
Effective at Mill Street

The "No Left Turn" regulation at Mill street and old Route 13 became effective today. Signs have been posted and motorists have more or less observed the ruling for the past several days.

The regulation put into effect for a 30-day trial period is expected to greatly improve traffic conditions in the shopping area and will be given, perhaps, its severest test this evening, when the regular Friday night traffic prevails.

Motorists approaching Mill street from the uptown area and desiring to enter Mill street, are asked to bear left at Mulberry street and proceed over Pond street to the business section or the parking lot.

GLEANED BY SCRIBES

Asserting that he "found no cavities in the teeth of the Eskimos," Dr. Luke Patrick, Doylestown dental specialist and a member of the Doylestown Kiwanis Club, on Tuesday evening said:

"Just as soon as they move farther south and eat softer foods and other sweets they begin to get cavities."

Dr. Patrick, who served in the Canadian Army for six years and did research among the Eskimos, explained their teeth, although they don't need fillings, are dirty and they often have infected gums.

The Doylestown dental assistant and service club member gave a talk on "Scientific Development of Dental Materials."

He gave the background of beeswax, plaster-of-paris and other compounds used by dentists.

Highlighting the meeting of Carversville Lodge, No. 261, I. O. O. F., Tuesday evening, was the celebration of the 85th birthday anniversary of Wesley Naylor, Doylestown, long a member of the order. It was pointed out at the informal observance that Mr. Naylor, the oldest living member of the lodge.

THE ENEMY AT HOME

Chapter Five

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—(INS)—Soviet delegate Jacob Malik's current fulminations in the United Nations Security Council are being echoed in countless Communist front organizations throughout the United States.

These numerous "fronts" serve as sounding boards for the vast Soviet propaganda machine operating throughout the world. They are perhaps the most effective weapon in the entire Communist conspiratorial apparatus.

The propaganda machine's purpose is simple and direct, but its machinations are not always easy to follow. The purpose is to confuse issues, to create doubt, to

SILVER STAR IS AWARD GRANTED
PFC. UNDERDOWNFor Gallantry in Action; Covered Withdrawal of Comrades

MISSING IN ACTION

Last Seen Alternately Firing Weapon and Operating A Radio

The Silver Star has been awarded PFC William F. Underdown, 19, of Maple Shade, for gallantry in action. Underdown, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Underdown, is listed as missing in action in Korea as of July 12th, his parents being so advised a few weeks ago.

His parents have been advised that the youthful soldier, a member of the 21st Infantry Regiment, 24th Division, was "last seen alternately firing his weapon and operating a radio in a fox-hole under heavy enemy fire." The citation further states: "He maintained communication for the battalion command post while his comrades withdrew."

Underdown enlisted in the army in December, 1948, and had been in Japan for over a year.

The young man, oldest of four children, was formerly employed at Walnut Grove Farm, Bristol township. He had last visited his home in March, 1949.

Underdown is one of seven men in his division awarded the Silver Star decoration.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

President Truman, expressing the hope that Communist China would not enter the Korean conflict, declared the Seventh Fleet was in Formosa Strait to protect the Korean flank and would be withdrawn as soon as hostilities in Korea were over.

He has no present plan, the President said, to increase American forces now in Germany. High Commissioner McCloy and Ambassador Douglas reached Washington with latest military and political data on Western Europe for the President and Secretary Acheson.

Congress passed and sent to the President a bill to give enlisted men dependency allowances, clearing the way, Representative Vinson said, for drafting men with dependents.

Passage today of a defense, production bill was predicted after Senate and House conferees had agreed on stand-by Presidential powers to invoke wage, price and rationing controls. Senate leaders, trying to speed a temporary tax bill, promised a retroactive excess profits levy next year. The Senate sustained the President's veto of an "indirect bonus" to World War II veterans in the postal service.

The House cited Joseph P. Kamp

for contempt for his refusal to turn over data to a committee. Abraham G. Silverman, a former civilian Air Corps official, refused for a second time to tell a committee whether he was a Communist. Indication that the Communist party planned to go underground if the House-passed anti-subversive bill became law was seen in orders for the party to complete its own registration of members within thirty days.

John Murphy, 29, brother of Police Officer Michael Murphy, is confined in Easton hospital with "polio." Murphy and his wife reside in Philadelphia. The two had been visiting Mrs. Murphy's relatives in Easton when Mr. Murphy was stricken ill.

BRISTOL AREA INDUSTRY IS VARIED:

Soap, Chemicals, Steel Boilers, Metal Products, Carpets, Electronics, Zinc, Parchment Papers, Women's Garments, Cardboard Containers, Vegetable Growing, Non-Ferrous Castings, Signal Flares, Grinding Wheels, Radio Equipment, Abrasive Papers, Plastic Covers and Polo Shirts, Valves, Fittings and Condensers. The Story Here Deals With Just One of the Many Industries Located in the Bristol Area.

This is sort of a red-letter day for the Kemline Metal Products Co. Five years ago on Sept. 1 the friendship that had brought Herman Ehrlich, James Keegan and Steve Midouhas together finally blossomed into what is now one of Bristol's fastest growing industries.

The three men had worked together in Fleetings during the war, and had talked a lot about starting their own metal fabricating plant. The war ended in August, 1945, and by Sept. 1 the three men had formed their company, leased space in the Leedom plant, and within two weeks had hired 15 employees and were in production.

The first five years of the company's existence have seen a steady growth that has now spread into nearly two full floors in Leedom's, and plans are now being made to move into still larger quarters.

First of the products which the firm began making was a small, steel scale-model of the B-29. It took several months to get the toy plans scaled down exactly, but when it finally was done the model

START HARVESTING
OF TOMATO CROP
IN LOWER BUCKSCool Nights Have Slowed
Up the Ripening
of Fruit

GOING TO CANNERIES

If Weather is Favorable The Crop May Still Be Average

Tomato picking in lower Bucks County is now underway and the harvesting of the crop is being pushed with vigor. Truckloads of the ripened fruit is being hauled to the canning factories.

Cool nights have slowed up the ripening of tomatoes and many farmers are behind on their picking schedules, County Agent William F. Greenawalt said today.

Some growers have only been able to pick once a week, while normally the picking at this time of year would be about two or more times each week.

If the weather co-operates, Mr. Greenawalt said, this season's crop still could come out average or even above average. The blight that had attacked a number of fields in the lower Bucks county area has apparently been checked in most places.

The growers started picking about two weeks ago. Mr. Greenawalt said that next week would be the peak of the season.

The weather has also affected the quality of the crop, the county agent declared, but the still unripened vegetables may yet turn out better—if the weather helps.

PERRONE INDICATES

On That Member

LAFAYETTE ST. MAN

"The eagle has been killed" is the manner in which Cpl. James Perrone, 29, wrote his wife, Ethel, in explaining that he had been wounded in action in Korea. Perrone had an eagle tattooed on his right arm, and thus his wife believes that his wound is in the arm.

Perrone's wife and two-year-old daughter Jeanette have their residence at 237 Lafayette street. Perrone is connected with the 5th R. C. T., and was for a time stationed in the Hawaiian Islands. He attended St. Ann's parochial school.

Perrone was wounded August 11th, according to a telegram received by his wife Sunday. He had served for four years in the army, most of the time in Panama, previous to his re-enlistment July 7, 1949. His two brothers, Anthony and Michael, are veterans of World War II. Anthony served in the army, and Michael was a navy man. His last letter to his wife was received August 29th, in which he briefly told of being wounded in action.

BREAK GROUND FOR
NEW FIRE STATIONAlfred Rigby, Jr., Gives The History of Cornwells
Fire Company

IS A ROTARY SPEAKER

ANDALUSIA, Sept. 1.—Bensalem Rotary Club held its weekly meeting in King's Hall on Tuesday evening. President Raymond Anderson called upon J. Maurice Tomlinson to give members a report on the State Police rodeo at Allentown held August 25th. The Bensalem Club played host to 240 children from Bensalem township at the rodeo. Mr. Tomlinson thanked members of the Andalusia Lions Club, Lower Bucks County Business Men's Association, and the members of Cornwells Fire Co. who aided.

Mr. Anderson called upon Dr. William Brodich, chairman of the community service committee, to introduce the speaker, Alfred Rigby, Jr. Mr. Rigby is president of Cornwells Fire Co. and had arrived to tell the members of the history, the services and future plans of the fire company. He related that prior to the year 1915 there was no fire protection available in Cornwells Heights. Equipment had to come from Holmesburg or Bristol. About that time three public-spirited men, Dr. Bowman, John Lauterbach and Joseph Bowman, purchased a hand-drawn, two-wheel chemical truck and stored it in Lauterbach's barn. This truck contained two 35-gallon tanks for soda and acid. The first meeting for the purpose of organizing a fire company was held in the P. O. S. of A. hall in January, 1915.

John W. Simons was elected president, and John Page, chief. A charter was recorded in July of the same year and the company boasted 73 members. Mr. Rigby told of the fund-raising drives the members staged that enabled them to purchase a new Brockway truck in 1917. Those two pieces were all the equipment the small company had until 1921 when it secured a Model T Ford and put chemical tanks on it. In 1923 the company

EXPECT WORK ON RIVER BRIDGE
TO START SOONDravo Corp. Submits Price of $2,136,298.36 For the Construction Work

SEVERAL OTHER BIDS

Razing Operations Are Scheduled To Begin Next Week, It is Stated

Lowest bidder on the new Delaware river bridge which will link Morrisville and Trenton is the Dravo Corporation of Pittsburgh, which is asking $2,136,298.36 for the construction work.

The Dravo bid was one of nine submitted to the Delaware River Joint Toll Bridge Commission. The estimates, which were opened in the Commission's offices in Trenton yesterday, ran from the Dravo bid to a high of $2,844,346.70 submitted by Johnson, Drake and Piper, Inc., of New York.

Kenneth R. Cox, an engineer for the Dravo Corporation, said that construction work will begin almost immediately after final approval of the bid by the Commission.

Several of the bidders barely submitted their estimates before the noon deadline yesterday. They were watching last minute market trends and the international situation before handing in their final figures.

Razing operations are scheduled to begin next week and completed within 30 working days. The new span will be between the railroad bridge and the lower bridge. It will enter Morrisville at Moreau street as an elevated approach and will merge into a road leading to the Lincoln highway at a point west of Morrisville.

At yesterday's opening of the bids, each contractor had a choice of bidding for only the substructure, which includes piers and abutments; the superstructure, the actual deck of the bridge, or the entire project.

Next to the Dravo bid, for the entire job, the second lowest was a combination of the Dravo estimate on the substructure, and a bid of $974,548.97 for the superstructure submitted by the American Bridge Co.—The total was $2,161,581.67.

A combination of a bid of $1,290,435.56 made the Kaufman Construction Co., of Philadelphia, for the substructure, and the American Bridge Co.'s superstructure estimate, was third at a total of $2,364,984.53.

These three lowest bids will be studied by the Commission and the Youth, 18, Found Dead;

Coronary Occlusion

UPPER BLACK EDDY, Sept. 1.—A youth of 18 years, who retired apparently feeling well, was found dead in bed on Tuesday at the home of his grandparents, here. The deceased is John James Smith, a carpenter.

The youth, who was the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. John Kral, is believed to have died from acute coronary occlusion, according to a post-mortem performed by a Quakertown surgeon.

When Mrs. Kral, the youth's grandmother, could not arouse him, she summoned her husband. The grandfather immediately called a physician, who pronounced him dead.

Coroner J. Alfred Rigby, of Cornwells Heights, was notified.

The Kral's said their grandson never complained of feeling ill nor did he give any impression of needing medical attention.

NO PAITY FOR COFFEE!

Members of the Senate Agriculture Committee continue to believe that the American consumer is more concerned about the price of coffee than about the price of potatoes or bread. Its second report on the subject, though toned down somewhat, still breathes the assumption that it is terribly shocking if a government (foreign) artificially tries to make the American consumer pay more for farm products—or for coffee, anyway.

This attitude causes speculation as to whether the committee's right hand knows what its left hand is doing in these years of bulging warehouses and blue potatoes.

Latin American governments have just as good reason to promote better coffee prices by the employment of various gimmicks as Washington has to support U.
S. farm prices. Better reason, because coffee is more important to the economies of some of them.
Farm labor in the coffee-growing areas is paid pitifully low wages.

It seems inconsistent, to say the least, that a committee which defends high American farm prices should talk balefully about anti-trust laws when it seems as if Latin America might be up to the same thing.

Latin Americans know that prices of the things they buy from us have gone up as much as has the price of coffee. When governments set aside the law of supply and demand, the sky is the limit.

MACARTHUR'S WARNING

General MacArthur has warned the North Korean commander-in-chief that he will be held personally responsible for the practice of murdering disarmed prisoners "if not promptly corrected."

Such a warning presupposes a North Korean defeat. Leaders of victorious armies are never punished for atrocities. Charges of atrocities were made against the Russians in World War II by the Polish government-in-exile, but such cases were never brought to trial.

Enemy infiltration is a related problem faced by United States forces. It is standard tactics for North Korean soldiers to don civilian clothes, pass through U.
S. lines as refugees, and later attack them from the rear. That, of course, gives American forces the right to shoot them as spies.

Infiltration tactics have the effect of making GI's suspicious of genuine Korean refugees. Under these circumstances they tend to dislike all Koreans. It is somewhat tragic that ill feeling should exist between the victims of aggression and the men risking death to protect them. But this effect of infiltration tactics no doubt is pleasing to Moscow.

Some people seem to think they have a sound argument because they are noisy.

Women are warned some of their hairdos will bring baldness.
What's baldness compared to being out of style?

Break Ground For

New Fire Station

purchased a Traylor chassis, placed chemical tanks on it, and retired the ailing Brockway. The lack of adequate water supplies in the community made the use of chemical tanks a necessity.

In 1929 the fire company purchased its first pumper, a Seagraves, costing $9000. The old Traylor chassis was fitted with a water tank by the Badenhausen

Corp., which gave the company a water supply for wherever it was called. In March of 1929, the company started to build the building which still houses the equipment.

Years followed with the purchase of more much-needed equipment.

The latest is a Ward-LaFrance pumper, capable of 750 gallons per minute. This pumper, with its full complement of hose and equipment, cost $17,000.

Mr. Rigby then told of the men who make up the fire company, "the men and the women who unselfishly devote their time and effort to service." Mr. Rigby described the company as "a heterogeneous group acting in homogeneity." They comprise men from every walk of life who act together in time of emergency to bring relief wherever disaster strikes. "These men risk life and limb whenever they answer a call to a blaze. Prior to 1925

there was no provision for benefits to a member killed or injured on duty. Now the group has a health and accident policy and a $1000 life insurance. This was further augmented by the Workmen's Compensation in 1930."

Mr. Rigby went on to describe how the need for larger quarters has grown. Two wings were added to the old building "and it is still inadequate."

Ground has been broken for a new and larger building to be erected on the opposite side of Bristol Pike from the present building. This will provide a headquarters for a great number of community activities. There will be a hall for basketball games, dances and a meeting place for civic organizations. Fire schooling for members will be held here. The Corn-wells Company has instituted what it calls "Chiefs Meetings." Fire chiefs from neighboring companies are invited to discuss their problems and comment upon problems of other companies.

Attending the meeting as visitors were S. M. Melnick, of Ft. Leavenworth, Kansas, and Shelby H.

Trappey, of Croydon.

The blazer is of white flannel with gold emblem, the navy vest is all wool, the blouse is nylon with tucked front and the wool skirt is an accordion-pleated red tartan plaid. The skirt is also available in a navy and white check that would combine equally well with the blazer, blouse and vest. ficer in Korea announced that two British battalions were standing by in readiness to answer an emergency call for reinforcements to bolster the American forces.

Because of the seriousness of the Red drive, the British cancelled plans for Friday exercises in a countryside adjacent to the bivouac area where the two British battalions, including Scottish Highlanders, arrived two days ago.

The Korean war's biggest battle erupted along a 55-mile front stretching up from the south coast to Tuksong on the Nakdong river as tank-led units of some 50,000 North Korean troops surged eastward at many points.

A spokesman for MacArthur's intelligence service declared late Friday that counter-attacking American forces, as of noon, had slowed and may even have stopped the southern section of the Red drive.

In that wing of the massive struggle, U. S. 25th Division troops, supported by tanks and artillery as well as droves of land-based and carrier-borne planes, struck back heavily at two Communist divisions. Farther north, other American forces were battling to seal up sev-

KNOW YOUR STATE

(Prepared for The Courier by the State Planning Board, Department of Commerce.)

Fifty years ago, gasoline, kerosene and other forms of mineral oil contributed only 4 1/2% of the nation's energy resources. Last year, more than one-third of all American power was derived from petroleum products and nearly 56 per cent from petroleum and natural gas combined. Without gasoline to power automobiles, tanks, trucks and airplanes, modern war, both for attack and defense, would be impossible, and the world pattern of American civilian life would be drastically changed.

Although Pennsylvania is the principal refiner of petroleum in the eastern half of the nation, its production of crude oil is relatively small. Pennsylvania grade crude is, however, of great importance to the industry of the nation. No other mineral oil yet discovered in our country possesses the valuable lubricating properties of that being pumped from the wells of McKean, Venango and neighboring counties.

Since the Bradford field of Pennsylvania was the first oil field ever to be developed in the history of the world, Pennsylvania producers during the years from 1860 to 1880 were compelled to develop all those methods for discovery well-drilling and transportation of oil, which were to become the basis of oil technology throughout the world.

In 1860, there was no precedent to aid in the solution of the problems of "mining oil" or of delivering this inflammable fuel safely to New York, Pittsburgh and Philadelphia.

After the first oil pools had been located by the infiltration of petroleum into salt or fresh water wells, or from surface indications, there was for a long time no better method of locating a flowing well than what was known as "hydro-geology." This mysterious process involved the cross-crossing of suspected areas by a man armed with a hazel or peach-tree twig, which was supposed to point sharply down wherever an oil deposit lay hidden under the surface of the ground. Strangely enough, many wells were located by this method.

Spiritualism was also a favorite early resource for revealing the secrets of subterranean oil deposits. Such methods were gradually replaced by the development of a theory of "oil belts" or pools and by a study of relation of known deposits to the geology of the underlying rocks as revealed by the successful borings.

Methods of drilling advanced rapidly from the crude spring-pole used by Colonel Drake to horse and finally steam driven equipment.

The early transportation of oil was largely by water and followed the pattern of the lumber industry. Barges built in the oil regions were freighted with wooden vats or tanks and then floated down the creeks in the spring floods. The first oil tanker ever to be constructed was built by Richard Glyde of Pittsburgh. This boat was divided into a number of water-tight compartments to prevent the surging of oil, which frequently capsize the early barges. Such craft were often moved down to Pittsburgh by the use of what was called "pond freshets," artificial floods produced by the release of water from impounding dams. These floods often carried several hundred waiting barges downstream to deep water before the freshet subsided, but the operation was attended by great loss and confusion, and by serious pollution of the water of the creeks and rivers.

Wagon trains and eventually railroads were found necessary to supply the growing demand for "Rock Oil." Before 1869 many branches of the principal eastern railways extended far up into the Pennsylvania oil regions, and freight cars loaded with wooden tanks became a common sight on the main lines. The building of iron tank cars began in 1867.

The difficulty of getting oil down to the railroads led to the early introduction of pipe lines, which are another important contribution of Pennsylvania to the history of petroleum.

Before 1870, many of the problems of drilling deep into the Third oil sand had been solved by Pennsylvania inventors. Pennsylvania "coal oil" became known over all the civilized world as an illuminant far superior to whale oil. Experiments in fractional distillation had revealed the complex nature of the many useful hydro-carbons concealed in Pennsylvania crude, and one of the world's most important industries was well on its way towards the transformation of modern life.

Addresses Rotarians On Soviet Actions

"The history of Soviet foreign relations since Stalin's assumption of power has not been conducted in sincere support of any international effort, but rather in harmony with temporary expediency to further the U. S. S. R. in its leading role as hub of the Communist world revolution movement," Gil Aertsen told fellow members of the Rotary Club when he spoke at the Elks' Home yesterday afternoon.

Aertsen emphasized the importance of selling our way of life to mankind throughout the world, "in language he understands and in actions which will convince all races and creeds, according to their particular beliefs, to the end that all persons will want our way of life in preference to the Communist way."

"This calls for positive action—not handouts and talk—in every phase of international operations," the speaker said.

"Successful salesmanship does not result alone from fighting the buyer or from giving away free samples."

"Up to the second World War Russian participation and co-operation in international collective security was governed by her desire to maintain peace so that attention could be devoted to the series of domestic five year plans, the consolidation of socialistic dictatorship at home. Since the War, in harmony with the doctrines of Marx, Engels and Lenin, Russian activity abroad has continued toward the disruption of other forms of economy and of other religions."

"The behavior of the Russian delegate at the UN Security Council differs in no way from the Russian activities at the League of Nations Preparatory Disarmament Conference. Unacceptable proposals, invectives magnifying the evils of other nations, designed solely for domestic consumption, rather than for progress in international well being is the usual Russian pattern of procedure.

"The Soviet Union, therefore, has a positive purpose in her conduct of foreign affairs, a purpose intertwined with a spiritual and material unity as outlined in the basic policies and theories of the Communist doctrine. War alone, money alone, or merely defensive measures will not overcome the Communist determination to carry out their aims of world revolution."

"We must sell mankind and convince mankind that our way of life is far, far superior to that offered by Communism," Aertsen concluded.

Social Security Checks To Be Increased in Sept.

The men, women and children already entitled to receive monthly Social Security old-age or survivors insurance checks will get automatic increases in the amount of their checks within the next three months. Harry W. Pease, manager of the local Social Security office at 3207 Kensington avenue, Philadelphia, said today. The increases, effective with checks covering the month of September are provided in the recently amended Social Security Act.

Mr. Pease suggested that those already on the Social Security beneficiary rolls refrain from contacting their local Social Security office in this particular instance. He explained that the task of re-writing some three million monthly benefit checks is handled by certifying offices throughout the nation, and that the local office has no means of advising beneficiaries of the exact amount of their new benefits or of the specific date the increased amounts will be reflected in their checks.

In addition, current recipients of monthly Social Security payments will receive letters from the certifying offices explaining the provisions of the revised Social Security law and assuring beneficiaries that their increased checks will be in the mail as rapidly as it is possible to complete the re-writing job. The complete re-writing task is expected to be finished within three months.

However, Mr. Pease pointed out, there will be no delay in receipt of monthly Social Security checks in the original figure. These payments will continue to be mailed to current beneficiaries on regular schedule. Those who do not receive the increased amount in their first monthly check will find it added to benefit payments they receive in immediately succeeding months. The increased amount will be retroactive in each instance to September, 1950.

SPORTSMEN'S BRIEFS

By JOE ELBERSON

Communication . . . "Where do you catch bass in the Bristol Canal? My pal and I fished the Canal for about a mile on the other side of the Highway and only had a strike. Would you answer this in the Courier? Signed, A. Friend."

Well, friend, there are bass in the Canal for most of its length. To answer your question from my own personal experiences and reports of catches by others, bass have been taken from in back of the Grand Theater to Wheatstee in the Bristol area. I have taken bass from the pool in back of the Grand, in the stretch just west of the Grand at Grundy's Park, under the PIR bridge, in back of Hunter-Wilson Distilling Co. (and this is an excellent stretch of water), between Green Lane and the New U. S. Route 13, between New U. S. Route 13 and the Two-Mile Lock, and directly east of the Two-Mile Lock.

Just as in any other fishing, however, one must learn by experience the haunts of the fish sought in any body of water. There are spots in the Canal in the area which I work which are always missed, and there are other spots which I invariably hit, both on my up trip and my return trip. And this important knowledge, friend, you will have to acquire by patience and experience.

Now available . . . the 1950 resident hunting license may now be secured from local sporting goods stores, or the County Treasurer in Doylestown. They become valid today and may be used through August 31st, 1951. Price: $3.15. Good for both small game and big game, and trapping.

Scores . . . Bill Quinn and J. McCormick posted 45s to split first honors in the Lewis Class bluebird shoot, held last Sunday over the traps of the Bristol Fish & Game Protective Association. George Good took second place money with a 44, and Wayne Warner was third with a 42 out of 50.

H. Ely was high in the second class with a 41, and E. Bridge and A. H. Twining turned in scores of 40 and 39, for second and third place honors, respectively.

Thirty-five shooters blasted away at 1125 targets during the program, a monthly event for the Club. The next shoot will be held September 24th, the day of the Association's annual outing.

Scores in the 25-bird practice matches included: J. Brady, 24; F. R. Davies, 24; B. Cassalia, Sr., 23; J. Katz, 22; B. Cassalia, Jr., 22; H. Rutherford, 21; K. Jenks, 21; W. Bossler, 21; W. MacSherry, 20; H. Webster, 19; and V. Carney, 19. Teen-age Betty Cassalia turned in a score of 21 out of 25. She was the only female shooter who participated last week.

Meeting . . . next Tuesday, September 5th, delegates of member clubs of the Bucks County Federation of Sportsmen's Clubs will meet in Doylestown, at 8 P. M. All clubs are urged to be represented at this meeting.

Now at liberty . . . a total of 204 pheasants, split almost evenly for sex, were released by the Bristol and Edgely clubs last Saturday afternoon. The birds were placed on open hunting cover in Bristol and Bensalem Townships. Raised by George Bintliff, Sr., for the two clubs, the birds were all in excellent condition when released, and they should provide some real sport when November rolls around.

Four-legged thief . . . this unusual 1950 story about a bear with a taste for bees recently came to light. Late in May a bear took a hive belonging to a farmer living near Shickshinny, Luzerne County, over a stone wall before enjoying his stolen treat. There the bear opened the hive and ate the combs and colony of bees, which is about all a hive contains in May.

This operation was different from most in that the bear did not damage either the hive or the frames he took from it. Also, in transporting the hive as he did the bear had to walk upright, man-fashion, carrying it much as a person would, his front legs serving in the place of a human's arms.

I don't know . . . for a good many years September 1st has ushered in the railbird hunting season in this area, but as of this writing I have not been able to learn whether today marks the opening of this year's season.

The regulations for this particular species of migratory bird are under the direction of the Federal Government's Department of the Interior (Fish & Wildlife Service), and for some unknown reason a delay in the establishing and publication of seasons has taken place.

Flash . . . split railbird season just announced. Sora runs from September 1st to October 20th. Clapper, king, Virginia and other rails, from September 15th to November 13th.

LUCISANO ENDS SEASON WITH WIN OVER AUTO BOYS

The Lucisano Brothers team ended its regular season of the Bristol Softball League with a 9-7 triumph over the Auto Boys aggregation last evening on Memorial Park field. Lucisano finished in fifth place during the season, with the Auto Boys ending in the cellar.

Three runs in the fifth gave the Tullytown team the verdict. They came up for the last time trailing by a run. White was out on a close play at first. But Al Monti walked and Roy Lynch lambasted a triple to center, scoring Monti with the tying run. Rapo grounded out for the second out, Lynch holding third. Tony Biancosino lined out a double and by the time the ball was being thrown around and fumbled, he crossed the plate with the insurance run.

Auto Boys outthrew the winners, 9 to 6, with Bob Elker getting a double and single.

GALLANTRY

DONCASTER—(INS)—The cost of gallantry runs high in Doncaster. John Rose, 28, was commended by the Doncaster magistrate for coming to the aid of a 29-year-old girl who complained she was being followed. But he was fined $8.40 for assaulting the man who followed her.

SUNDAY DINNER Suggestions

IN THE constant search for something new with which to surprise her family and occasion those compliments she so enjoys, the average homemaker may overlook some of the older, more substantial recipes hidden away in her cookbook.

For that reason the A & P Service for Homemakers suggests featuring casseroles of pork chops on this Sunday's dinner table. The many flavorful ingredients used in preparing this dish will help make it popular with the entire family.

First trim the chops neatly, removing every bit of fat and skin. Then put a layer of pared and shredded tomatoes in the bottom of a casserole. Sprinkle with salt. Add a layer of onion juice. Lay two or three chops on the tomatoes, season again with salt and pepper. Around them arrange small pellets of parboiled potatoes, and add a dozen or so mushrooms, fresh or canned. Now add another layer of tomatoes, season as before, then add more chops, potatoes and mushrooms. The casserole's top layer should be of tomatoes. Pour in a generous cupful of stock, bouillon or consommé. Cover and cook steadily for two hours.

When the meat is tender, pour off the gravy carefully and thicken with browned flour. Add juice of half a lemon and a teaspoonful of kitchen bouquet. Pour this over the casserole, place back in oven for three minutes, then serve directly from the casserole.

Your family's favorite pie, perhaps a la mode, and an appropriate beverage, will help make this a meal which you will soon be asked to repeat.

vide and weaken, to provoke internal disorder.

At the moment the so-called "peace petition" drive is probably the greatest single propaganda campaign ever undertaken by the Communist Party in the United States.

The appeal for "peace," and for outlawing atomic weapons, originated in Stockholm last March. In this country the goal of the Communists is to obtain five million signatures to the peace petition. Thus far approximately one and a half million Americans have signed.

The world goal of the Cominform, investigators say, is 300 million signatures within the next three months.

In pushing the "peace" drive the National Labor Conference for Peace is the arm of the movement reaching into labor unions.

In New York, Marcel Scherer, a union official, is one of the leaders of the peace drive. Scherer was released from his duties as education-called upon the Federation to set up peace committees in all factories "for action against production for war and transport of arms."

Commenting on this action, Dr. J. B. Matthews, former director of research for the House Un-American Activities Committee, said: "In three words, the Federation called for an 'organization for sabotage.'"

"The WFTU," Matthews continued, "represents the octopus-like tentacles of sabotage reaching into every non-Communist country in the world. It is the most important single organization in the Kremlin's preparations for war in the guise of peace."

The world organization for this "peace" maneuver is the World Congress of the Defenders of Peace, headed by the famous atomic scientist and avowed Communist, Frederic Joliot-Curie, with headquarters in Paris.

"It is unmistakably clear," says Matthews, "that the Kremlin has instructed the 'defenders' to devote all, or almost all, their energies . . . to preparing for war under the camouflage of a 'mighty peace movement.'"

Thus what Soviet Delegate Malik has been saying in his hamstrunging of the U. N. Security Council on the Korean war issue, has been repeated and emphasized through myriad "front" organizations which zealously follow the Communist Party line.

The FBI and other official agencies point out that it has become increasingly difficult to combat these front organizations. Literally hundreds of them have been cited as Communist and subversive by the Attorney-General and other Government bodies.

It is apparently useless, however, to attempt to outlaw such organizations, law experts say, for the simple reason that the minute one is exposed it often will dissolve only to resume operations under another name. They come and go with confusing rapidity, with new names, with varying "purposes," but always inspired and controlled by Communists or their sympathizers.

Unfortunately, the "fronts" seem always to be successful in attracting not only "fellow travelers" but also some sincere and highly respected citizens. They are known as the "innocents" who are deluded into thinking that the organizations are all that they purport to be—loyal to American institutions.

The Communists always have been clever in their manipulation of the "fronts." They were never more artful than they are now, as "the enemy at home" redoubles its efforts against the interests of the United States.

The "Cultural and Scientific Conference for World Peace," held at New York's Waldorf-Astoria Hotel last year, is cited as a classic example.

This conference was convened under the sponsorship of the National Council of Arts, Sciences and Professions, which has been described in a lengthy report of the House Un-American Activities Committee as a Communist front, descended from the Independent Citizens Committee of Arts, Sciences and Professions.

Despite the fact that the conference was denounced by the State Department as Communist inspired, it attracted some of the nation's leading scholars, including more than a hundred college and university professors drawn from 51 institutions in 21 states.
